

Erin C. Lentz, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor

Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs

University of Texas, Austin

Erin C. Lentz is an Assistant Professor at the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas, Austin. She holds a PhD in Sociology, an MS in Applied Economics and Management, and a BA in Economics, all from Cornell University. Erin also received a Fulbright Fellowship to Bangladesh to research the secondary effects of food aid in local communities. She has worked or consulted with CARE, the United Nations World Food Program, and numerous other international NGOs on markets, food security and food assistance programs. Over the past fourteen years, she has researched and published extensively on issues of food assistance and food security in both academic and policy venues. Among others, her research has been featured in the Washington Post, The Hill, and National Public Radio.